

HARBOR, RIVER AND MARINE NEWS

Shipping Transactions and
Notes of Interest Along
The Bay Front.

Taking advantage of the strong southwest wind yesterday morning, the Danish barkentine Ansgar, Capt. Jorgensen, entered port under her own sails, arriving here from Barbadoes. She is consigned to H. Baars & Co.

Tarpon Left Last Night.
The steamer Tarpon, Capt. Barrow, which arrived here yesterday morning from Mobile, left last night for St. Andrews and other points. The steamer was in the storm nearly all of Monday night, escaping any damage and arriving here on schedule time.

Naval Stores Receipts.
The following cargoes of naval stores were unloaded yesterday at Jefferson street wharf: River steamer, Capt. Fritz, from Freeport, with 225 barrels; river steamer Viola, from Freeport, 150 barrels; schooner Lucy H., from Southport, 350 barrels.

New Dock at Key West.
Preliminary work has been started on the concrete dock at Key West on the Fort Taylor reservation. The dock will be used by the quartermaster's department at that place, which has recently been furnished with a large tug.

Eleven Ships Fly American Flag.
A Washington special to the New Orleans Times-Democrat says: The ocean-going American merchant marine in the foreign trade has dwindled to eleven ships. Five of these are on the Atlantic and six on the Pacific. Before the report on which the foregoing assertion was based, was begun, there had been thirteen such American ships. While, however, the report was in the making two of the seven on the Atlantic were transferred to the British flag.

A Novel Rudder Indicator.
A rudder indicator is now made which indicates the position of a rudder at night without the use of any light in the wheelhouse. The device is made entirely of bronze and is attached to the steering wheel. An arrow traveling over a dial indicates the exact position of the rudder, swinging as it does with the rudder so that the position of the rudder may be seen instantly in daylight. At night, the scale remains dark if the rudder is amidship. If the rudder is to port, a red light illuminates a translucent shield, thus notifying the helmsman immediately of the general position of the rudder, while the arrow gives the exact angular deflection. If the rudder is to starboard, the shield glows green. In no instance is any bright light shown to interfere with or obscure the wheelman's vision, which is the case wherever a light is turned on in the wheelhouse. —New York Maritime Register.

The Passing of the Whale.
A contributor to the Scientific American recently sounds a note of warning on the passing of the whale. According to this writer the howhead is on the verge of actual extermination and the right whale has been commercially exterminated in the northern hemisphere. As for the narwhal or unicorn whale and humpback, the former has never been an object of commercial pursuit, while the latter bids fair to become extinct before many years through the ease with which it can be taken, an example being cited wherein two whalers on the Pacific Coast in 1908 took respectively 318 and 385 whales, most of them being humpbacks. The improved methods of whaling are shown in that a single vessel employed by a whaling station situated at Delagoa Bay, Africa, captured 104 whales in two months from July to September last year.

The argument that the diminished demand for whale oil has resulted in a less keen pursuit of the whale is unfounded, as the demand is just as great today as it ever was and is

INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

N. GOLDRING IS ALLEGED TO HAVE REFILLED BOTTLES CON-
TAINING INTERNAL REVENUE
STAMP—GAVE AN IMMEDIATE BOND.

In the United States court yesterday afternoon the grand jury returned an indictment against N. Goldring, of this city, in which it is alleged that on March 4th he refilled or caused to be refilled in his place of business, bottles on which were the revenue stamp. It is charged that this stamp stated the contents to be 100 proof, while the liquors found in them were only 92 proof. The defendant gave bond in the sum of $1,000 and the case was continued to the next term of court.

This case is the outcome of an inspection by revenue officers some weeks ago of liquors handled in Pensacola, and at that time it was stated a number of saloons were found where the bottles had been refilled.

Sentenced for Contempt.
D. H. Hilliard, a witness in one of the cases to come before the court, was taken into custody in the hallway in the forenoon, it being charged that he was intoxicated. He was adjudged in contempt and sent to jail.

Is an ordeal which all women approach with dread, for nothing compares to the pain of child-birth. The thought of the suffering in store for her robs the expectant mother of pleasant anticipations.
